Pepper Proposes 75 Cent Minimum Wage for Workers

Florida Senator Says His Suggestion Is Above Earlier, Since Times Have Changed

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—President Truman's twice-stated bid to boost the national minimum wage brought from Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) today a proposal to shove it up 35 cents to 75 cents an hour.

And the general idea commanded enough Republican sympathy to indicate at least a fair chance that Congress may pass some kind of bill to hike the pay base.

The new chairman of the House Labor Committee, Rep. Hartley (R-N.J.), told a reporter that "personally, I'm very much in favor of it."

The present rate, set in the 1938 fair labor standards law, is 40 cents an hour. All firms doing business in more than one state have to pay their help at least that much.

Pepper said in an interview that a new standard is "vitally necessary." He pushed through the Senate last year a bill to set it at 65 cents. The measure, however, got snarled in the House Committee.

The Florida Senator, saying his new bill would be ready today, added that it calls for a dime more an hour than his old one because "conditions have changed and the cost of living is up."

Mr. Truman didn't say how high he wants to go. But in two messages to Congress this week he emphasized that he considers an increase necessary.

Tough Struggle Likely

Neither Pepper's bill nor any other is likely to slide through without a tough struggle.

Many Dixie Legislators have fought an increase on the grounds it would hurt southern industry harder than northern.

Lawmakers from farm states are expected to yell, too, unless labor costs are included when parity prices are figured on agricultural products. They crumpled a provision for that into Pepper's bill before it passed the Senate last April. (Parity is a price intended to assure farmers the same purchasing power they had during some favorable period in the past, usually 1909-1914.)

Some type of compromise is probable.

Some Republicans helped Pepper lever his bill through the Senate last time, and the Florida lawmaker looks for help from them again.

He said he thinks Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) of the labor committee will go for 60 or 65 cents maybe more, since conditions have changed. Taft had nothing to say immediately.

Hartley said any raise should go only to workers needing it most. He said it should not be used "as a basis for pushing up wages all along the line."

Pilgrim Workers Will Vote on Union To Choose Bargain Agent in N.L.R.B. Poll on January 17th

Election to choose a bargaining agent will be held by the employees of the Pilgrim Furniture Company at the plant, 43 Teller street, Friday, January 17.

This date was set after a hearing before the National Labor Relations Board at its office, 120 Wall street, New York, Thursday.

The polls will be open from 12 noon to 1 o'clock.

Production and maintenance employees will be eligible to vote, except foremen and supervisors, according to George E. Verry, Jr., business agent of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, A. F. L. Office workers also are excluded.

Mr. Verry was at yesterday's meeting as a spokesman for the Pilgrim employees, along with a shop committee, composed of Michael Torelli, Edward C. Slicker and Ralph Garfield.

N. LeVan Haver, local attorney, represented the Pilgrim concern as its lawyer in the discussion that took place before Arthur Younger, examiner for the N.L.R.B.

The movement of Pilgrim employees to unionize started in November, but management announced at that time its decision not to deal with the workers until a future date.

Byrnes in Cheerful Mood

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes was in a cheerful, almost gay mood today after what may be his last cabinet meeting.

Leaving the White House, Byrnes greeted reporters jovially and stopped to chat. When they asked if the cabinet meeting was his last, Byrnes said he couldn't say for sure since the time when Gen. George C. Marshall will take over as his successor is uncertain. Then, grinning broadly, the secretary said he would leave office "the minute my successor is qualified."

Australia Is Only Hold-Out Against Trieste Decision

New York, Jan. 10 (AP)—Recommendations by L. Metcalf Walling, wage-hour administrator, for two changes in the Fair Labor Standards Act intended to avert conditions resulting in the multi-billion dollar flood of portal-to-portal pay suits were pending before Congress today.

Walling, in his 1946 report to the Congress, renewed two proposals he had previously made. He released his report yesterday from his office here.

The proposals are:

1. A grant to the administrator of "power, subject to court review, to issue authoritative definitions of general terms used in the statute so that employers complying with his definitions would be protected from liability for the period such rulings are in effect."

2. A request for a "reasonable statute of limitations in the Fair Labor Standards Act to apply to employee suits for back wages and damages."

Walling said in reference to his first proposal that "at the present time the administrator can give only advisory opinions" and added that "any court in the land, state or federal, has jurisdiction to entertain suits under the act."

If the administrator had power to issue specific definitions, Walling said, he could "protect employers from any civil or criminal liability where they are complying with the administrator's regulations."

Walling also asked Congress to establish a new minimum hourly wage of 65 cents to replace the present 40 cents.

Miller Says Principal Clerk in Assessor's Office Never Took Examination

The post of principal clerk in the office of the city assessor at the city hall has been declared vacant by the Municipal Civil Service Commission, it was said today by Leonard Miller, president of the commission.

Mr. Miller said that the action was taken, since the present incumbent, C. LeRoy Brower, had never taken a promotional examination for the position, and that according to the civil service records the appointment of Mr. Brower to serve as principal clerk was merely a temporary appointment.

According to Mr. Miller the civil service board declared the post of principal clerk vacant at the December meeting of the board.

Mr. Brower was working as usual in the assessor's office. He said, in reply to questions, that he had not been officially notified of the action taken by the civil service board in declaring the post vacant.

No action has been taken by the civil service board to call for a promotional examination for the post declared vacant, it was said by Mr. Miller.

Holloway to Take Over At Annapolis Academy

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 10 (AP)—Rear Admiral James L. Holloway, Jr., will relieve Vice Admiral Aubrey W. Fitch as superintendent of the Naval Academy Wednesday in ceremonies at Dahlgren Hall.

Admiral Fitch, in command at the academy since August, 1945, will become special assistant to Under Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan.

The new superintendent graduated from Annapolis in 1919. He commanded Destroyer Squadron 10 in the North African invasion and the battleship Iowa in battles in Philippine and Japanese waters. He is also known as chairman of the Holloway Board, which devised an education program for officers of the postwar navy.

Testifies Fay Took $150,000

Brewster Firm Official Gives Dates on Cash Payments to Labor Leader

Charged for Peace

Government Asks Back Taxes of $118,879 Official Says

Newark, N. J., Jan. 10 (AP)—An official of a New Jersey construction firm testified today in the trial of labor leader Joseph S. Fay on income tax evasion charges that over a period of three years he had paid Fay $150,000 in cash "with the view of preventing labor trouble."

William J. Brewster, who identified himself as the official directing policy for the George W. Brewster and son construction company of Bogota, testified as a government witness that the payments, allegedly made to Fay in the Brewster office in cash at Fay's request were as follows:

1940—Five payments of $5,000 each in connection with five projects the Brewster firm was interested in at the time.

1941—Nine cash payments totaling $45,000 ranging from $5,000 to $20,000 each.

1942—Eight payments on eight projects totaling $60,000 in sums of $50 or $10,000.

In Three States

The construction projects were in New York, New Jersey and Delaware, the witness said.

U. S. Attorney Edgar H. Rossbach asked Brewster whether he gave any indication any other person or persons would receive any of the money.

Brewster testified his first became acquainted with Fay, a building trades labor leader of the A.F.L., about 10 years ago. He said he had conversations with Fay over certain periods but said he could not recall the substance or the dates of the meetings.

When the line of questioning turned to the reported cash payments, Brewster referred to a memorandum he had on his person. He said that there were no labor troubles at the time of the payments, "but labor trouble was anticipated."

Traprock Witness III

Just before the witness was called, Rossbach informed U. S. Judge Thomas F. Meaney that one of the contractors listed as a witness, Wilson F. Traprock, a New York Times reporter, had reported he was ill and could not appear today. Rossbach obtained permission of the court to put Foss on the stand at any time when he would be available.

Rossbach had said yesterday in his opening that Foss paid $6,000 and John S. MacDonald of the Walsh Construction company, of New York had paid $30,000 to Fay.

Heavy Back Taxes

Rossbach said several "others" paid an additional $1,000.

Fay did not report receiving this money, Rossbach said, and owes the government $118,879 in back income taxes.

The chief government witness yesterday after the swearing in of the eighth man, four women jury was Leo Reilly, secretary of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. He testified that he made out Fay's income tax from information furnished him by Fay and records of Local 835, International Operating and Hoisting Engineers. Fay, vice president and business agent for the local, owns two-thirds of the excavation firm, Teilly & Sons.

He testified that Fay told him he had no other income except that contained in Reilly's reports and an unnamed sum given him by a group of contractors to use in entertaining labor leaders at prize fights and football games.

Says He Got Advice

Under cross-examination by John W. McGeehan, Jr., of defense counsel, Reilly said internal revenue agents had investigated Fay's returns annually from 1929 to 1936 and had told him (Reilly) that it was not necessary to include the entertainment fund in the returns.

The labor leader's tax returns, admitted in evidence, showed that he receives $18,000 a year salary from the International Excavation Co., $5,700 a year salary from Local 835 and $1,358 a year salary from the International Union.

Reilly also testified Fay received (Continued on Page Two)

House May Take Action on Measures Prior to Senate

Bill Offered by Case May Become Basis for Labor Legislation in House

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Republican-controlled 80th Congress ended its first week of business today with the House threatening to take the ball away from the Senate on labor legislation.

Looking ahead, House leaders privately disclosed plans to have their branch write a comprehensive strike control measure before the March 1 date Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) has set for his labor committee to send one to the Senate for debate.

It is possible the new House labor committee headed by Rep. Hartley (R-N.J.) will use as the basis of its considerations the all-inclusive measure introduced yesterday by Rep. Francis Case (R-S.D.).

They aren't going to wait for the Senate, we can pass a bill much quicker in the House, a high-placed Republican told reporters.

He smiled broadly when asked whether he thinks the House prefers not to have a labor bill named after Taft, an all but avowed aspirant for the party's 1948 Presidential nomination.

The new labor measure proposed by Representative Case is far broader than the Case bill vetoed last year by President Truman. It includes more than a score of labor law revisions, one of which would make it possible for the government to delay a coal strike, or a strike in any equally important industry, through Federal Court injunction.

Defines "Unfairness"

It also defines a group of "unfair labor practices" by unions. Senate Republicans had planned to concentrate at the outset on the 1946 Case bill with slight revisions and to tackle more comprehensive legislation later.

Competing with labor legislation for congressional interest and assured of almost equally prompt attention are bills to cut taxes and to dole out to the various government agencies the funds they need for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

In the background, but likely to erupt into the first stage at any time, are such issues as universal training, army-navy merger and removal of rent controls.

The widely held belief that Congress is in a mood to enact some form of strike control or labor union regulation legislation was bolstered by an Associated Press poll of Republican and Democratic leaders of both chambers.

Six of the eight listed such action as "certain," while the other two termed it "probable."

Only three were "certain" that income taxes would be cut, but five said a reduction is "probable."

Would Merge Services

Four thought it probable that the 80th Congress would merge the Army and the Navy, but four said it is "unlikely."

None saw much outlook for universal training, three tabbing it "no chance" and the other five "unlikely."

On the issue of rent controls, which President Truman wants extended beyond June 30, two of the leaders said they expect them to be removed, four termed an early end to these curbs unlikely and two expressed no opinion.

The President's budget message, due at noon, was expected to touch off the White House-Capitol Hill fight over spending.

Mr. Truman's economic report Wednesday sounded the bell for a no-quarter battle over tax-cutting.

In advance of official disclosure of the budget, Chairman Taber (R-N.Y.) of the House Appropriations Committee promised to wield a "mace" at the figure if it comes anywhere near the $37,000,000,000 total Capitol Hill has heard it will.

The "proper" size, Taber indicated, would be $8,000,000,000 less, or around $29,000,000,000.

Teachers Display Indignation Over Boost in Wages

No Word From Dewey Over Protests; His Committee to Give Its Report

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—Governor Dewey's administration held its fire today in a contest with New York state teachers over the amount of a state-financed salary increase planned for them.

The teachers reacted indignantly to unheeded reports that Dewey's Republican regime would limit the boost to $300 or slightly more.

The governor's office maintained a tight-lipped silence, both officially and unofficially, leading observers to the conclusion that there would be no deviation from the already determined program, which will be submitted to the legislature next week.

New York state's 72,000 teachers "are in no mood to take words or make-believe," the State Teachers Association and the New York City Teachers Salary Conference warned in a joint statement.

They "have suffered genteel poverty too long," the two groups protested. "They demand salaries that will enable them to live as professional citizens have a right to live."

Other legislative developments:

A request by municipalities for additional local taxing powers. Predictions by legislative leaders that the 1947 session would be able to adjourn about March 17.

Dewey's special committee on education will submit its recommendations early next week. It is expected to propose an immediate increase of $300 a year for one year for all public school teachers.

At that time, the new members of the council had broad powers under the charter to work for the maintenance of peace.

Prior to last-minute consultations with his legal adviser, Makin indicated he might abstain from voting. The big powers were assured of at least eight votes on a proposal needing an affirmative majority of seven, and they probably could muster a total of ten.

The Trieste problem was put over on Tuesday until this afternoon to study the proposal, but

Truman Says Budget 'Realistic' and 'Tight' and Says He Forced Economy

Sees Balance Ahead President Says U. S. Treasury Will Have Balanced Budget

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—President Truman proposed today that the government spend $37,528,000,000 during the fiscal year which begins next July 1.

His budget message to the Republican Congress thus went more than $8,000,000,000 over the limit some key G.O.P. leaders have set for federal outlays in their determined drive to cut taxes while whitening away at the mammoth national debt.

Chairman Bridges (R-N.H.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee issued an immediate statement calling the message "a cold shock to the American taxpayer's public" which had expected "tax reduction, debt reduction and cost-of-living reduction."

Mr. Truman earmarked $11,587,000,000—or nearly a third of the total for national defense—and again ignored Republican demands that this item should be held to $10,000,000,000 or less.

But the chief executive, calling his budget "realistic" and "tight," insisted he had been "more hard-boiled" than I like to be "in enforcing his own economy demands on federal agencies."

His recommended total of $37,528,000,000 is $4,985,000,000 under his revised estimate on what it is costing the government to operate this year and $1,688,000,000 higher than the budget he submitted just a year ago.

Even so, the president said the treasury will close its books on June 30, 1948, with its first balanced budget in 18 years—and with a $202,000,000 surplus to boot—provided there are no tax cuts in the next 18 months. He placed estimates on the gross for the coming year at $37,730,000,000, a drop of $2,500,000,000 from the current fiscal period.

In addition to reiterating his plea for Congress to leave wartime income tax rates in effect, Mr. Truman prodded the lawmakers to:

1. Prevent a $1,200,000,000-a-year cut now scheduled to take effect July 1 in excise taxes on liquor, beer, wine, furs, jewelry, cosmetics, movie admissions, night club bills, telephone service and other items.

2. Increase postal rates sufficiently to wipe out the post office department's $352,000,000 operating deficit. The president did not specify the rates to be raised, but said he has instructed Postmaster General Hannegan to prepare suggestions.

(There were indications that these suggestions will apply principally to second-class mailing privileges for certain newspapers and magazines on the ground that the present low rates constitute a "subsidy" to them.)

Can Increase Surplus

If Congress accepted the recommendations on excise taxes and postal rates, the president said, it can increase the $202,000,000 margin of surplus—which he termed "very slight"—to $1,800,000,000.

In contrast, he added that he now expects the current fiscal year which ends June 30, to wind up with a deficit of $2,283,000,000—$393,000,000 worse than he estimated last August. (In October Mr. Truman said twice he expected this year's budget to be in balance by the end of June.)

Upping his 1947 figures for the second time since his record peace-time estimates in last year's budget message, the president said expenditures this year will reach $42,523,000,000—a $1,000,000,000 gain from his August estimates. He ascribed this largely to veterans programs, citing as an example the fact that many more veterans than had been expected went to college or enrolled for jobs training.

Revenues this fiscal year will reach $40,240,000,000, a gain of $600,000,000 over August estimates and a jump of $8,717,000,000 from his forecast of a year ago. Better-than-expected tax collections resulting from high-level business activity accounted for the increases, Mr. Truman said.

Income Forecast Lower

Walling May Have Curb For Portal-to-Portal Suits

Lake Success, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—Australia appeared today to be the only hold-out against the big power foreign ministers' decision to place Trieste under the administration of the United Nations Security Council.

The council was scheduled to meet at 3 p. m. (E.S.T.) to accept responsibility for the Adriatic port as its first peace-maintenance project under a governor to be appointed by the council after the signing of the Italian peace treaty in February.

The big powers now have abandoned hope for unanimity on the decision on Trieste, debate on which began last Tuesday with Australia dissenting on principle.

At that time, the new members of the council—Belgium, Colombia and Syria—asked for more time to study the proposal, but since have indicated that they would vote for the project.

Australian Delegate Norman J. O. Makin, the current chairman of the 11-nation council, argued that there was no specific charter provision for an administration such as that arranged for Trieste.

Britain, the United States, Russia, France and China, all permanent members of the council, joined in the counter argument that the council had broad powers under the charter to work for the maintenance of peace.

Prior to last-minute consultations with his legal adviser, Makin indicated he might abstain from voting. The big powers were assured of at least eight votes on a proposal needing an affirmative majority of seven, and they probably could muster a total of ten.

The Trieste problem was put over on Tuesday until this afternoon to study the proposal, but President Bunsie then presented Fire Chief Murphy. The Chief commended Rapid Hose Co. for the service they were rendering. The volunteer firemen should realize, he said, that they are an integral part of the fire service in the city of Kingston. Although in cases of small fires, where perhaps but a single piece of equipment is needed, such can be handled by the paid department, the help of the volunteer firemen must be called upon in the event a large fire breaks out, declared the Chief.

Senator Taft (R.-Ohio), already has called for a $8,500,000 slash in the White House budget and a 20 percent cut in income taxes. Rep. Taber (R.-N.Y.), of the House Appropriations Committee has said expenditures could be cut back to $20,500,000,000.

But Senator Aiken (R.-Vt.), opposed any tax cut "until we have balanced the budget and have reduced the national debt by a reasonable amount."

The testimony of the three co-defendants in the case, to conclude the government's case, was brief. Each said, before the start of the trial that he had only half-drawn witnesses and could not give his case "in a day." John P. Kelly, an internal revenue agent of New York, asked the witness to stand up. Kelly and John A. Lawless, an employee of Local 635, who testified he notarized them, followed Kelly to the witness stand yesterday.

Legion Leader Sounds Warning On Mobilization

Philadelphia, Jan. 10 (AP)—"In the next war," declared Paul H. Griffith, national commander of the American Legion, "there will be no time for leisurely mobilization of the fighting forces."

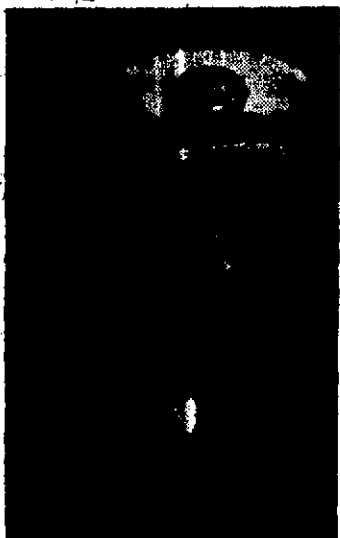

"There will be a sudden call for immediate action," he asserted. "Those who are not ready to fight will never fight again; they will have been doomed to death or slavery."

Speaking at a testimonial dinner given in his honor last night by the Philadelphia County Council of the Legion, the Uniontown (Pa.) native called for a merger of command of the nation's armed forces and a system of universal military training for its youth.

Griffith said the Legion's program calls for immediate re-writing and enactment of the National Defense Act of 1916, as amended, to provide every need of modern preparedness for war.

"The American Legion," he declared, "is now—as always—a firm believer in economy of government. x x x the American Legion is confident, however, that economy achieved at the expense of security is no economy at all."

noon in the hope that the vote of acceptance would be unanimous.

In the meantime, the council yesterday began a prospectively long and stubborn debate centering on the United States and Russia over the world-wide arms reduction program recommended by the General Assembly in December.

The main contenders came to grips immediately, disregarding Makin's opening plea for harmony and an Australian compromise proposal that would put an arms reduction commission to the drafting task immediately, as demanded by Russia, and also give a free rein for further development of the American atomic control program adopted by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Under the Australian proposal, these efforts would converge at some time in the future.

The opening round of debate developed on a familiar pattern. Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko contended the American delegation is seeking to stall on arms reduction and American Delegate Herschel V. Johnson stood firm for priority of atomic control discussions as the basis of disarmings.

The Australian compromise also would call on the military staff committee immediately to determine the needs of the proposed international police force which would implement drastic decisions of the council.

Lie said "A number of persons are under consideration" for the post. During the day Lie conferred with Wilson Wyatt, former federal housing administrator, who was looked upon as a leading candidate.

Government Wants Control of Electric System in Britain

London, Jan. 10 (AP)—The government published today a bill calling for state acquisition of Britain's entire electricity production and supply system, initiating the sixth phase of an 18-month-old nationalization program providing for public ownership of at least seven of the nation's basic industries.

The bill provides for appointment of a central authority to standardize the industry and furnish increased supplies at cheaper rates.

Four businesses and industries—the Bank of England, civil aviation, Cable and Wireless, Ltd., and coal mining—already have passed into public ownership under the Labor Government's socialist program. A bill for nationalization of inland transport is before Parliament.

Nationalization of the steel industry has been deferred, probably until next year.

Served With Summons

The cars of Martin A. Prior of High Falls and that of Fred Mertine of Tillson were in collision at Rosendale Thursday evening. State Troopers Austin and Capis, who investigated, reported that the Mertine truck was stopped while the operator talked with a man and the other car struck it in the rear. Mertine was served with a summons to appear today before Justice of the Peace Albert Lester at Rosendale to answer to a charge of failure to have reflectors on his truck.

Soviet Union Is Pleased To Entertain Montgomery

Moscow, Jan. 10 (AP)—Field Marshal Lord Montgomery took a sightseeing tour through the Kremlin today and was asked to reserve this evening for a probable state occasion at which an important person might be present.

(This dispatch did not name the "important person," but earlier dispatches suggested Montgomery might see Prime Minister Stalin during the visit.)

Montgomery expects to end his visit tomorrow and return to Britain by plane if weather permits. Moscow was swept by snowstorm today.

The Field Marshal was guest at a British Embassy dinner last night at which Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, in a speech, referred to Montgomery as "Monty" and said the Soviet Union was pleased to have him as a guest.

In response, Montgomery stressed the contacts he had made with the Soviet army and talked of the growing collaboration he expected. His host, Marshal Alexander M. Vasilievsky, was slightly indisposed and unable to attend the affair.

Fewer Alcoholics But Drink Poses Threat—Jellinek

Cleveland, Jan. 10 (AP)—More people are drinking, and the people are drinking more, believes Dr. E. M. Jellinek, director of the Yale School of Alcoholism studies. He told a conference on the subject of imbibing alcohol, Dr. Jellinek declared America drank as many gallons of distilled spirits in nine months of 1946 as it did during all of 1945.

"We have a lower rate of alcoholism than we had in pre-prohibition days," he said. "Then

Urges That Church Look After Vets Attending College

Buck Hill Falls, Pa., Jan. 10 (AP)—For the church to neglect war veterans now receiving college educations in crowded quarters on jammed campuses "would be nothing less than tragic negligence," says the Rev. Don S. Fleistick.

Mr. Fleistick, field representative of the Home Missions Council of North America, declared yesterday after being named commissioner of a students veterans emergency committee that "this opportunity is doubly important because the church must see to it that Christianity is a fundamental part of their thinking as they plan for the future."

The council, which represents 23 major Protestant denominations, announced it would establish the committee primarily to serve those Protestant veterans and their families now housed in temporary makeshift college communities and who have no particular link to campus religious activities.

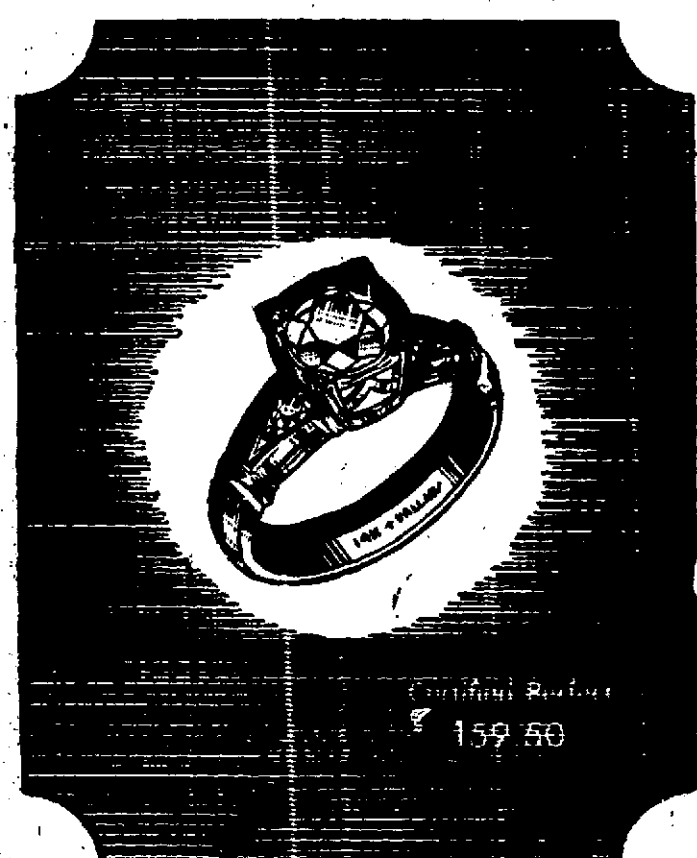

The council, which has been in session all week, winds up its annual meeting today with election of officers and an address by the outgoing president, Dr. Hermann N. Morse, executive secretary of the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

there were about 2,000 chronic alcoholics out of every 100,000 population. Now we have about 550 out of every 100,000. But this is a big and threatening problem. More people are drinking, and I think people are drinking more."

"One and one-half highballs will slow eye movements only about two per cent, but will cut a typewriter's efficiency in choosing type and setting it by as much as 25 to 30 per cent."

He continued that "at our clinic about half the alcoholics are from homes where drinking is approved, and 'half' from homes that are teetotaling."

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

New York, Jan. 9—(AP)—"Dear sir," said the letter, "since you have set up shop as the poor man's philosopher, perhaps you'll tell a poor young man like me how to pick a wife."

Certainly, Horace, nothing could be easier. Knock the snow off your boots, my boy, and sit down. Take off those plaid earmuffs and listen!

Wrong Presentation
To begin with you have stated the problem wrong. The difficulty, Horace, is not in picking a good all-weather wife, but in avoiding the iron grasp of a woman who merely wants to train you to bring your paycheck home in your mouth.

In your state of mind you should keep your track shoes on at all times, ready for a quick getaway. A man who admits he is in the market for a wife, Horace, is a deer in the open snow with the wolves closing in.

That small salary you tote home, my boy, may look meager to you, but there are a million feminine predators who would like to turn it into fur money.

So start off by pretending you don't want a wife. Be subtle, Horace. Run your own bargain sale. Take your candidates over the hurdles test 'em under strain.

Here's the Way
Well, first, beware of any woman who is too beautiful, too brainy, or who reminds you of an icicle. If she looks twice at a mirror in passing, she needs a looking glass, not a husband. Give her one and bow out. If she has an I.Q. like Einstein's, she is too smart to be tied to a guy like you who asks other people for advice. And if she won't thaw a little for you now, Horace, you torrid lover, will she ever? Echo answers: "Never."

So what have we left? Several nice, kind, neatly dressed young fluffs who may want to marry after you for your dimple and winning ways or may just want to get out from behind a sales counter, or climb down off the boss's lap for a long rest at home. It's time for the road test, Horace.

Clip Joint Test
Take 'em out one at a time to the night clubs. If they belt away more bug juice than you, if they want to stay three hours after midnight, wash 'em out, boy. You can't support two people all your life in a clip joint.

Make the car break down on a cold night. If she bends your ear with complaints as you slog home on foot, scratch her—no, Horace, I just mean scratch her off your list.

She Loves You If!
You're down to one two-legged sugar plum now. She loves you if—

You tell her you're broke and she pays for the theatre tickets. You say "I've got hay fever" and she sneezes in sympathy.

You give her a present and she gives you more expensive one right back.

The buggy runs out of gasoline and she pays for more. ("Now, Horace, I insist. It's so much fun to be out riding with you.")

You tell her you're hungry, and she says "let me stir up something for you."

She wants you to taste her coffee first to see if it's too hot. You tell her there's insanity in your family, and she just rumples your hair and says, "my poor boy."

Scrape off the War Paint
Yes, Horace. This one is in love with you. It's time now to thump her in the chest to see that she's sound of mind. Pry open her jaws and look at her teeth. It's still the best way to gauge her age since you can't very well saw off her legs and count the rings.

Scrape off her war paint so you can see how she'll look in the morning. She's okay?

Quick, Horace! Propose to this woman. Marry her, give her a washing machine for a wedding present and live happily ever after. But I'm afraid, my boy, you'll learn it's easier to pick a wife than live with one.

Play Review

by SYLVESTER HOWARD

Whenever dramatists write political plays they illustrate the two sides of a question by a stormy love affair. The man is usually the rough, untidy, side; and the woman is the gentle, sweet, reasonable side. The woman usually wins. Such plays make it very difficult for the audience to decide whether the love between the two people or a war between two nations is more important.

The "Big Two" by L. Bush-Fekete and Mary Helen Fay, is a typical example of this political play. It is a play about the Russian Revolution and the American newspaperman who is caught in the middle.

The play is a very difficult one for the audience to decide whether the love between the two people or a war between two nations is more important. The play is a very difficult one for the audience to decide whether the love between the two people or a war between two nations is more important.

WHENAS RECENTLY the members of the City of Kingston Council met to discuss the proposed new city charter, they were faced with a very difficult decision. The new charter would give the city a more democratic form of government, but it would also require the city to pay for the cost of the new government.

The members of the council were divided on the issue. Some felt that the new charter was necessary for the city's future, while others felt that the cost was too high.

The council finally decided to vote on the new charter. The vote was 10-5 in favor of the new charter.

The new charter will be put to a vote of the people in the next election. The city hopes that the people will support the new charter.

RECOMMENDATIONS TOO MILD

The House Committee of Un-American Activities has been so long brown-baited by the New Deal administration that its members appear too cowed to realize the support they might have from the new Congress. The recommendations for combating Communism contained in their annual report submitted when Congress convened only harked at the Red snake's tail.

The awakened Congress and partially aroused public might be willing to go all the way at least in legislation to outlaw the whole Communist movement as a military arm of Soviet Russia.

That the Committee lacked the courage to demand all its members privately desired is shown in its report. It classified the American Communist Party as "the agent of a foreign power which has debated itself to the overthrow of the United States government." Still, the Committee only asked for minor curbs.

Now if the Communist Party were the agent of the State of Monaco, whose army numbers less than 200 and whose navy is one trim, little pleasure yacht, the American people might be willing to laugh off the threat of German aggression and settle for a few minor restraints. But the foreign power referred to in the Committee report has a standing army estimated at upwards of 6,000,000 men, with 17,000,000 more ready to report for duty at the sound of a sergeant's whistle. It's fighting billions of dollars worth of captured German equipment plus eleven billion worth of the finest equipment which the private enterprise system could produce and deliver through one-way slots in the blackout curtain.

We Should Strike First

In addition to this formidable backing, the American Communist Party has powerful support from certain radio chains and motion picture establishments and so many other well-oiled groups that it is said not more than fifty men in the United States fully understand all its intricacies.

Such backing gives it the strength to seriously threaten this government. The snake has reached its growth. It has taken in its coils the heartland of Eurasia and spread itself across so much other territory that it can strike at us whenever the opportune moment arrives—striking both from within and without, for it is a double-headed monster. It has only to lie and wait for the moment of confusion among us, such as a financial panic or a serious break in relations with Britain.

Long ago it declared its intention to destroy us. Why then does the House committee not take advantage of the awareness of the new Congress to ask for legislation which would meet the challenge and strike first?

The committee recommended that the use of second class mails be denied to foreign language publications which did not also carry English translations. It is proposed apparently is aimed at, among others, the New York Morning Freiheit, one of the largest Communist dailies in America. It is published in Yiddish and is devoted primarily to forcing the Jewish community into Marxist ranks. With a paid circulation of about 70,000, it has an estimated 300,000 readers. It is tied up with the Communist Freiheit Association, which has branches in most of our principal cities.

Legislation also was requested to set up a Congressional committee to clean Reds out of government jobs, and still other requests were for deportation of Communist aliens and for a special section under the Department of Justice to prosecute subversive elements. All these requests would be unnecessary and uncalled for if the President would act to uphold the Constitution. These legislative proposals all encroach on the executive department—because the House committee never has been able to get the executive department, meaning the President and the attorney general, to take action against Reds.

When a Ku Kluxer is suspected of raising his ugly head the chief executive and his attorney general act promptly.

When the Hitler machine was said to threaten our security, the chief executive and his men took steps to wipe out that 11th column.

Why does not the House Committee now urge Congress to force such all-out action against the military threat of the Stalin machine inside our borders? If we clean out the fifth column we can avoid war with Russia. (Copyright 1947 by John F. Dille Co.)

Indications Are Dairy Prices Will Drop in 1947

New York, Jan. 10 (AP)—A comparison of trends in prices of milk and butter during and after the first and second world wars indicates that prices of dairy products will decline during 1947, an article in the November-December issue of the Market Administrator's Bulletin published by the administrator of the New York metropolitan area says.

The article asserts that skyrocketing of dairy prices to two and one-half times their pre-war level by the end of 1946 mirrors the trend of prices after the 1918 armistice.

After the first war, prices for dairy products reached a peak level nearly three times as high as the 1914 level, the article says, and then, between June, 1920 and March, 1921 suffered a drastic drop to less than 50 per cent above the 1914 average.

Prices since the end of hostilities in the second war in August, 1945, have gone up to two and one-half times the pre-war level. Butter prices, however, recently dropped and the Agriculture Department in Washington called a hearing today which may result in lower prices for dairy products in the northeastern United States.

Anderson Tells Farmers They Must Plan Seriously

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 10 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson said in an address to Kentucky farmers here yesterday that "it is imperative that we do some serious planning" for the next two years.

Speaking before the annual convention of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, Anderson said farmers must plan for the period when price supports will be removed two years from now.

"The next two years will be a time to get our fences repaired," Anderson said, "both figuratively and literally. It will be a time to get our mortgages paid down and our savings up."

"Though it may not be expedient now to make the improvements on our farms which we want to make because of the present high cost, the next two years will be a time to get away the savings which will enable us to do these things later."

"We must turn our attention now more to the conservation and improvement of our soil. During the war we borrowed heavily on our soil fertility bank account. We must repay this loan with interest."

The number of horses and mules on U. S. farms fell from 14,400,000 to 1,400,000 between 1940 and 1946.

New Party to Start

New York Marches on In Lumber Production

That New York state will again take its place among the large timber producing states is indicated by the measures adopted to implement the new Forest Practice Standards Law, according to The New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse University.

Under this law the Conservation Department at Albany has divided the state into 15 districts with a district forester in each district, and, where needed, assistant foresters have been or will be appointed. The purpose of the law is to help woodland owners in the management of their forests and forest land. The organization will also carry on practices on state-owned forests outside the Forest Preserve looking to their sustained production.

Never before has the state provided a functioning body like this. There are probably seven million acres involved. The plan is a kind of insurance that young forests set out during the last three decades as well as those that will be planted in the future will be handled on an economically sound basis. The plan means that idle land will be reforested, that young plantations will eventually produce merchantable timber for all time, that older forests will be put in order to do likewise, and that the wood-working industries and employment will become more stabilized. Ask your county agricultural agent for further information or write to the college.

Retailing Lumber Course At Forestry College

An institute of training in the retail lumber business will be held at the New York State College of Forestry, Syracuse University, from January 6 to February 5. This course is being conducted under a cooperative arrangement with the Forestry College and the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Association.

Forty representatives of the retail lumber industries have registered for the course. They include foremen, officials, and other persons interested in problems of retail lumber. The course will be held, for the most part, in the museum of the Marshall Building on the Syracuse University campus.

The demand for this course was so great that it will be repeated in March with an entire new group of industrial representatives. The course will be given by members of the college faculty, the university, and experts from the Retail Lumbermen's Association.

It will cover: Advertising, business law, transportation, insurance, accounting, business letters, salesmanship, marketing channels, blueprint reading, construction, new ideas and trends, estimating, commercial lumber properties, wood decay, and wood preservation.

No official estimate of the damage was made.

Senior Church Group Has Carver Day Tea

The Seniors of the Franklin Street A.M.E. Zion Sunday School were guests at a Carver tea Sunday afternoon. Mrs. P. Proctor White and Miss June E. Van Der Zee presided. The tea was held in observance of George Washington Carver Day, which has been designated by Congress and by proclamation of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Miss Arlene Rose Dabney gave a review of the biography of Dr. Carver as written by Raskam Holt. Mrs. White also supplied interesting anecdotes from the life of the man who was born a slave in Missouri in 1868, and who rose to fame and achieved the Spingarn medal as a result of his experiments. He discovered 305 uses of the peanut, and 109 various ways to use the North American sweet potato. Mrs. White noted that Dr. Carver refused to have any of his findings patented because he believed they belonged to the people.

The group also voted to form a Negro History Study Club, which will meet twice monthly and discuss outstanding Negroes and current Negro events.

Those in attendance were the Misses Thelma, Arlene and Betty Jane Dabney, Pearl Armstrong, Emily Simms, and John and Joseph Lawson and Le Roy Singlet and the Rev. Dr. Stephen D. Conrad who will be one of the spiritual advisers of the group.

Catholic Daughters to Comply With Saying Rosary Daily

The daughters appreciate the response to their appeal for mothers of pads for the Rosary Hill Hospital. Mrs. Vincent A. Gorman will be at the municipal auditorium again Wednesday from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Any person willing to help who cannot give a full day will be welcomed if only for an hour.

Sister Berenice expressed her sincere thanks and gratitude to the auxiliary for the time and effort they spent on decorating the hospital for the holiday season. The candles that were used on the window ledges were so effective and added a cheerful note to the rooms and corridors.

At the conclusion of the meeting an interesting talk was given by Dr. J. S. Taylor. His topic was "Cancer." He stressed the importance of regular physical check ups, especially where there are any irregularities such as sores that do not heal, lumps on the body or a discharge that is not normal. Cancer can be controlled and even healed if it is taken in time. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Raymond Mino, Mrs. Bart Dutton and Mrs. John J. Boitt.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post
(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

SITTER'S DOUBLE DUTY

A letter asks: "May the young girl, whom we have engaged for the evening of our party to stay upstairs where she can hear the children should they wake, be asked to open the front door for our guests? We are giving this party downstairs in our playroom and I cannot be in both places at one time to tell people where to put their wraps and where to go and at the same time to talk to those who arrived earlier."

It is not unreasonable to ask the sitter to do this, but it is important that you tell her of this service when you engage her.

Changing Mind About Joining Club

Dear Mrs. Post: When I was invited to join a child study group some months ago, I declined. I explained to the neighbor who had asked me that I had all I could do to take care of my house and young baby. Since then, the situation has changed somewhat and I would like to join the group if I am still welcome. May I ask now after having refused once?

Answer: Certainly you may explain that the situation has changed for you and ask if you may join now. (The only circumstance under which this could be embarrassing would be if it were a lunch club and no more than a definite number could be seated at a table.)

A Sleepy Guest

Dear Mrs. Post: When staying in someone's house, does the hostess or the guest suggest going to bed?

Answer: Usually the hostess, but there is no definite rule and if a guest is tired and there is no party in progress, it is entirely proper for her to say that she is sleepy and ask if she may go to bed.

An Every-Season Dress

Dear Mrs. Post: Would a chamber formal dress that looks for all the world like taffeta and is trimmed with velvet be out of season this winter at our school dances?

Answer: From your description of its chameleon-like characteristics, I can't imagine that it will look out of place.

How and when to serve cocktails may be found in Mrs. Post's leaflet, "Cocktails." Send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to her in care of the Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 19, Station G, New York 13, N. Y. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Radio Personality, Dinner Club Speaker

ELSIE MAY GORDON

"Radio's Best Known Unknown," Elsie May Gordon, will be the speaker at the meeting of Kingston National Dinner Club Wednesday, 6:30 p. m. at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Over the radio she is one of the voices heard in "Valiant Lady," "Young Doctor Malone," "Easy Aces," "When a Girl Marries," "The Aldrich Family," "Stage Door Canteen."

In the early days of radio she was heard as a stammering boy, Irish maid, crying baby, and also as the town gossip in the first outstanding serial of the air, "Tommykins Corners." She began her radio career in 1922 as one of the twins on "The Gold Dust Hour." After she played the piglet in "Winnie, the Pooh," the parrot in Dr. Doolittle series, the horse in "Black Beauty," and the magpie in "The Little Lame Prince," she was described as "The girl with the freak voice."

For a number of years she was the only "child" on radio. Even today she is one of the few adults who plays child parts.

Miss Gordon was born in Anderson, Ind., of a Quaker family. She attended Emerson College in Boston and afterward put in five years on the Chautauqua circuit with impersonations, songs and stories of the south.

Her topic in Kingston will be "Behind the Broadcasts."

Gasoline, Oil Blazes Call Out City Firemen

Frank DeCicco was busy washing some auto parts in a pan of gasoline in the garage of James DeCicco at 325 East Chester street Thursday afternoon at 4:50 o'clock when the gasoline vapor ignited from a coal stove fire, setting fire to the work bench and some of the equipment.

Mr. DeCicco picked up the pan of burning gasoline and carried it outside the building. He was burned about the hands.

The fire department responded to a telephone call, and the fire was extinguished with but little damage to the equipment or the building.

At 9:24 o'clock last night the firemen responded to a still alarm from 112 Pearl street where excessive oil in the kitchen range is the apartments of Edward Gaynor had ignited. The fire had been extinguished when the firemen reached the house.

STREAMLINE YOUR FIGURE

Block Those Curves
Are yesterday's pretty curves slowly turning into tomorrow's unattractive bulges? Later have a private conference with your mirror. You probably need to revise your eating habits.

If you like soup, for example, why choose cream of corn (200 calories) when consommé is only 25? Of course, you want to finish your meal with dessert. A cup of apple snow is slightly over 100 calories while a piece of apple pie adds about 300 to your daily intake. You must learn to choose your foods wisely if you want to remain or keep your youthful figure.

The Kingston Daily Freeman Reader Service booklet includes caloric charts, low-caloric menus, dessert and salad recipes, reducing rules and tricks. It shows you how to lose weight pleasantly and safely without starving.

Infant Mortality Rate Lowest in Nation's History

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Public Health Service reported today the infant mortality rate has reached the lowest point in the nation's history and appears to be still heading downward.

The rate for 1945 was 38.3 deaths under one year old per 1,000 live births, 3.8 per cent lower than the rate of 1944. Provisional figures for the first 10 months of 1946, a health service announcement added, indicated a 3.2 decrease from the same period of 1945.

The maternal mortality rate of 2.1 per 1,000 live births for 1945 also was a new low, showing a reduction of nearly 9 per cent from the rate of 2.3 from the previous year.

The agency said one of the factors in the lowered infant and maternal mortality rates was an increase from 1944 to 1945 in the proportion of babies delivered in hospitals.

The infant mortality rate varied widely among the states, from a 1945 low of 28.2 in Rhode Island and Nebraska to a high of 100.8 in New Mexico.

Virgilio Also Due
Carmine Virgilio, uncrowned lightweight king of the Hudson Valley, also is booked for an appearance on the next B'nai B'rith card according to Sam Riber. The popular Poughkeepsie belter may box Tommy Ritt, N.B.A. bantamweight champion of New York city if arrangements are completed in time.

Theis, 18-year-old Polish-German-American farmer, who is a protégé of Tommy Paul, National Boxing Association featherweight champion of 1932, showed Jenkins a pair of tricks in their main duel of five rounds. The upstate leather-puncher was in on Jenkins from the first round on and it was easy to notice that the usually calm Jenkins was experiencing a rough time of it.

Jenkins, winner over such luminaries as Buddy Matthews, Mike Sule and Paul "Kid" Hawks, never did get started last night. The first round was his best effort when he tagged Theis with a hard right to the jaw but Connie shook this off and came back to pepper the face and body.

This opened the second round with his steady stream of short left and right jabs to the jaw of Jenkins. The Gotham boxer caught Connie with a hard right smash to the chin midway in the round but again Connie shook it off and retaliated with his own assortment of punches.

The Buffalo youngster took the third session by a big edge when he had Jenkins hog-tied from the start. The New Yorker tried in vain to wedge in a peek-out punch but young Theis danced around and peppered him before he could get set. Like deadpan as usual, broke his dead countenance near the ropes when he looked bad trying to decipher Connie's defense.

Theis also took the fourth stanza and went into the fifth carrying a big lead. He continued to outbox the New York foe to a standstill. Jenkins, right up to the finish, tried to get in one of his lethal punches but to no avail.

Morton Decisions Hawks
Eddie Morton, 150, Albany, won a unanimous decision over Paul "Kid" Hawks, 150, Beacon in the semi-final. Morton took the lead in the first two rounds and it wasn't until the third that the Beacon Bomber finally got his hard right working with success. Hawks pummeled Morton in this canto but his spirit ended quickly and Morton went on to win the bout handily.

The Albany ace nearly won the fight by a technical in the fourth when Hawks was literally out on his feet but he remained in the duel and answered the gong starting the fifth round. Morton leveled a straight hard left jab to Hawks' body in the fourth which stunned the Beacon boxer. Hawks gave Morton a lashing in return but the round ended with Morton having the better of it. Morton opened a small gash above Hawks' right eye during the fourth canto.

Hawks tried desperately to win the fight by a quick knockout in the fifth when he landed two right flushes to Morton's chin at the start but his attack floundered as Morton held on and won the unanimous decision.

Supporting Results
The supporting card of bouts which didn't come up to the usual standard had the following results:

Tommy Davis, 154, Kingston, defeated Jimmy Harrison, 151, Albany, in three rounds.
C. Johnson, 155, Albany, out-pointed Bill Verheide, 152, Kingston, in three rounds.
Johnny Rowland, 140, Albany, defeated Johnny Chaplin, 146, Albany, in three rounds.

League to Seek Laws Punishing Acts of Bribery

Loop Is Asked to Seek Action in States in Which Memh Are Listed

New York, Jan. 10 (AP)—The National Football League, moving to prevent a recurrence of the attempt to rig its 1946 championship playoff, intends to seek laws making bribery of athletes a criminal offense in every state in which the loop operates.

Following the speedy conviction of Alvin J. Park on charges of offering bribes to two New York Giants players, League Commissioner Bert Bell said today he already had asked the Detroit Lions to press for action in Michigan, and would ask all other clubs in the loop to seek such legislation.

Bell announced his new move after suspending the Giants' Frank Filchook and Merle Hapes pending disposition of their case sometime next week. They face possible lifetime banishment for failure to report bribe offers.

In Washington yesterday, Filchook said he didn't tell the club of Paris' approach on the ground "my life wouldn't have been worth a nickel if I had." He said he feared physical harm from mobsters if he told anyone.

New Jersey authorities entered the continuing investigation after New York Assistant District Attorney George P. Monaghan said he believed Paris was an agent of a gambling syndicate possibly centering in New York.

Ide McGuire, petite Hollywood player who was said in testimony to have attended parties at Paris' apartment at which Giants' players also were present, was questioned at the New York district attorney's office again yesterday.

In the league's drive for anti-bribe legislation, Bell disclosed that he had asked his brother, Governor John C. Bell of Pennsylvania, to urge legislation in that state, home of two N.F.L. teams, the Philadelphia Eagles and the Pittsburgh Steelers.

New York state has had anti-bribe legislation on its books since the Chicago Black Sox baseball scandal of 1919. The New York statute covers only actual bribery, but holds that even an attempt to bribe or a promise of a bribe are criminal offenses.

The league commissioner said he is cooperating also with officials in Washington regarding possible federal legislation.

Three Are Handed Passes as Phillies Start 'Cleaning'

Philadelphia, Jan. 10 (AP)—The long-awaited housecleaning of the Philadelphia Athletics appeared to be shaping up today with the announcement that veteran major leaguers George McQuinn, Gene DeSauteles and Tuck Stalback have been given unconditional releases.

It is no secret that the A's front office resented the fact that Philadelphia last season flopped to games of the National League Phillies, even setting a new Quaker City mark of more than 1,000,000 attendance, but that they managed to stay away from Shibe Park pretty regularly when the Maeks were playing.

Connie Mack, the 84-year-old owner-manager of the Athletics, announced at the end of last season he would build another flag winner, and promptly set about doing so.

Release of the three players was just another step in the program to bring a winner to the house that Mack built, Shibe Park. Mack appointed Artbur Ehlers farm system manager last month and told him to spend as much as $1,000,000 to develop young players.

He drafted Ferris Fain, regarded as one of the most promising young players in the country, from the San Francisco Pacific Coast League club.

Mack still is scouting for others to join Fain, a first baseman in his infield, for he is certain he is strong in the other departments. McQuinn, a former world series star with the St. Louis Browns, hit a mild .225 last season, his poorest in the majors. DeSauteles' mark was even lower, .215, while Stalback contrived to club .244.

All are 10-year men and thus may make any deals they desire to join another major league club. All the A's spotlight pitchers—Phil Marchildon, Dick Fowler and Bob Savage—already have signed 1947 contracts and the A's are hoping the triumvirate can amass 50 games among them.

Catcher Buddy Rosar, who set a new fielding record last year, is expected to see most of the action behind the plate, while Elmer Valo and Barney McCosky, both .300 hitters, and Sam Chapman, who is regarded as one of the best outfielding corps in the business, they last won a pennant in 1931.

Local Pro Cagers Meet Elizabeth In League Contest

Cage Mentor Hopes to Use Former St. Francis Star in Full-Time Duty at Forward Position

Professional basketball will occupy the spotlight Saturday night at the spacious municipal auditorium court when the Kingston Chiefs battle the Elizabeth Braves in a regular American League contest.

The Marines and Rienzo A.C. members of the City Y.M.C.A. Basketball League, will meet in the preliminary tomorrow night starting at 7:45 o'clock. The main tilt is slated for 9:15 o'clock.

Riding on a .500 average in their two home games to date, the Chiefs will be out to better their standings in President John O'Brien's circuit Saturday with a big victory over the Braves. The Chiefs have defeated the Paterson Cerscents, 44-42 in a league game here while losing a 59 to 46 verdict to the Brooklyn Gothams.

Cooney In Confident

Couch Roddy Cooney, famed mentor of St. Francis College of Brooklyn prior to the war, is confident his cagers can get back on the victory trail tomorrow night. "The boys are due to break out in a wholesale scoring slaughter soon and I think Saturday will be the time for it to happen. We rolled up 55 points against the Philadelphia Slas last week which was a start."

The Chiefs, although showing traces of brilliant ball handling at times, haven't had the scoring column over the 50 mark in their two home games to date. "We should do it tomorrow night though if Marty Powers and Art Lockheed get going," Cooney added in a pre-game statement this morning.

Lockheed, a former St. Francis star under Coach Cooney, has been a star performer in the Brooklyn game when he nearly routed the Gothams in a last period rally. Art, still weak from an early season illness, may be ready for full-time duty tomorrow.

The sale of reserved seats for Saturday's encounter is setting a brisk pace according to early reports. Veteran cage fans also are applying in large numbers for season tickets which went on sale after the Brooklyn game here. Choice seats are still available, however, and may be procured by calling the American Legion Building, 1914.

Kingston and area basketball fans who watched Frido Frey, Saul Cohen, Les Walsh, Sol Kopitko and other former metropolitan college stars perform with the Brooklyn Gothams, New York's night will have another batch of ex-college cagers to view Saturday night when the Braves come in.

Led by the lanky Bobby Dorn, former Temple University star who angels at a six foot, six inch height, the Elizabeth quintet packs plenty of height and scoring power. Dorn is one of three players in the American League who has scored 24 points in one game. Others performing this feat are George Bahich of the Jersey City Atoms and Leonard Weiner of Philadelphia.

Besides Dorn the Braves have Hy Gotkin, former St. John's University star; Bob Merrick, Springfield College; Al Moschetti, another St. John ace; Dick Murphy, Manhattan College; Steve Juenger, Temple University; Herbie Bloom, Jack Hudson, formerly of West Virginia University and Jack Garlick. The club is coached by Leo Merson, former Long Island University star.

Baltimore Trips Troy

The Baltimore Bullets, league leaders of the Southern Division of the A.P.B.L. scored a 79 to 58 victory over the Troy Celtics last night. The loss dropped the Celtics back into fifth place behind the Chiefs. The Chiefs have won four and lost 10 while the Celtics have a record of five wins and 13 setbacks.

Lafayette Ranks With Cage Bigwigs

Easton, Pa., Jan. 10 (AP)—Lafayette College, top dog in the tough Middle Atlantic Basketball Conference, ranks today among the nation's cage elite with 15 straight victories over a two-year span.

That 15th triumph, incidentally, was over the team which last defeated them—Columbia University.

The Maroon of Lafayette, winners last season of the mythical state championship of Pennsylvania, have moved front and center during the short tenure as coach of Bill Anderson.

Anderson, left Lower Merion High School on Philadelphia's main line, where he had built many state champions and contenders, to make the post of basketball coach and director of athletics at Lafayette last season.

It took Anderson a little while to get his players into full swing, and Lafayette lost three early season contests, but the Maroon closed with a rush to win 10 straight and defeat Muhlenberg, which reached the semi-finals of the Madison Square Garden invitation tournament in a playoff game for the Middle Atlantic crown.

This year, Lafayette has bowled over five straight foes with an ease which presages difficulty for all future foes, including such teams as undefeated Bucknell, and strong Muhlenberg and Pennsylvania.

Lafayette opens defense of its Middle Atlantic crown tomorrow night when it meets Muhlenberg here. The game is a sellout.

Lindsey Is Bowling Legend

In all the glittering array of tenpin talent that will parade this week-end at the Central Recreation, the brightest star of all will be Mort Lindsey, of the American Bowling and Billiard squad.

Lindsey, now in his fifties and reputed to be a millionaire, is regarded as one of the five greatest bowlers of all time. He won his first major title just 28 years ago, 1919, with a 1933 all-events total in the American Bowling Congress tournament. For years he was known as bowling's greatest showman.

Just by way of keeping the agenda straight for the multiple attractions, here are the salient facts:

The Time: Saturday night, January 11, 9 p. m.
The Place: Central Recreation.
The Feature: Jean Michaels vs. Rose Schatzel, first 10 game block of 20-game match for $500 purse. Second block, Saturday, January 18, at Bowler's Alleys, 14th street and University Place, New York City.

JEAN "MICKY" MICHAELS: 1946 New York State W.I.B.C. singles champion, 625; and all-events champion with nine-game total of 1730.

World-Telegram Headpin Tournament winner 1943.
Captain of James Gray Ladies, winners of Women's Major League in New York, 1945 and 1946. Also city tournament champions.

ROSE SCHATZEL: Undisputed women's bowling champion of the Hudson Valley. Seasonal-triples of 672, 674 and 696. Winner over Viola Morrison, Albany city singles titleholder in sensational 10-game series by 9 pins.

STAR IN HIS OWN RIGHT . . . even if he doesn't bowl.
Al Cirillo, bowling editor of the New York Enquirer and tenpin commentator over Station WBYN, Brooklyn. Won early fame as bowling comedian and master of ceremonies. Will assist in week-end program. Was instrumental in arranging the Schatzel-Michaels match.

WOMEN'S FEATURE: Michaels' All Stars vs. undefeated Kaye Sportswair, Sunday at 1 p. m. Presenting:

ANN SABOWSKI: Regarded as the toughest female bowler of the moment in metropolitan circles. Leads the Women's Major at Newark, the Mixed League in Queens and is crowding Tillie Taylor in a third league. Averaging around 180 in three leagues. New Jersey state doubles champion.

THELMA CUOZZO: One of top five averages in Women's Classic in Newark. The distaff side of one of the strongest husband-wife combinations in country. Her husband, Carmine "Hickey" Cuozzo is regarded as one of New Jersey's leading sharpshooters. The Cuozzos operate the Bowl-a-Rena in Newark. Mrs. Cuozzo batting better than 175 and is regarded as a future great in Eastern circles. "Hickey" is making the trip with his wife. . . . Other members are Ann McLennan and Ruth Jones, both highly regarded skittlers.

American Bowling and Billiards Personnel:

MORT LINDSEY: One of bowling's all-time greats. Won A.B.C. all-events in 1919 with 1933. New York state singles champion with 759 in 1940, second highest total ever rolled in state play. MARTY CASSIO: One of East's superb singles shooters. Leads 10 year averages in A.B.C. competition, bowling's most coveted honor. One of few men to roll 700 twice in A.B.C. play. Defeated Andy Varipapa, present national match game champion in 80-game match last year.

FRANK SEATON, DOM SURACI AND RICKEY KNAPP: Seaton has been metropolitan star for years. Heavy man for Capital Five of legendary fame in New York. Suraci and Knapp are two of the leading youngsters in the East.

American Bowling and Billiards is sponsored by Lew Markus, who is doing more for his boys than any sponsor in Eastern history. Markus and Ed Hildeson wanted a winner and were willing to pay for it. They have it.

Course Is Offered

In Piloting, Small

Boat Handling

The Mid-Hudson Squadron, a member of the United States Power Squadron, in conjunction with the Kingston Power Boat Association will conduct an elementary course in piloting and small boat handling in Kingston beginning on January 29th and continuing for the succeeding eight weeks. Competent members of the Squadron will talk on many subjects related to small boat handling such as rules of the road, safety, equipment, regulations, aids to navigation (including buoys, lights, charts, etc.), the compass and others.

The course is open to anyone and there will be no fee charged. The elementary course was given in Kingston just once before, in 1942, and more than 30 local boating fans took advantage of the opportunity to get better acquainted with the government regulations pertaining to boating and the proper manner in which to handle their crafts on the Rondout, the Hudson and other local waterways.

J. Paul Leonard, J.N., of Poughkeepsie, past commander of the Mid-Hudson Squadron, is in charge of the elementary courses scheduled for this area and he promises that this year's course will be both instructive and enjoyable.

President Offers Budget for 1947-48

The chief executive declared, income is expected to run $2,500,000,000 lower—because of (1) the scheduled drop in excise taxes, (2) the end of excess-profits tax collections and (3) an expected decline in receipts from surplus property sales.

Despite this overall drop, Mr. Truman said collections from direct taxes on individuals will rise $488,000,000 to $1,120,000,000, assuming there is no income tax cut.

The yield from direct taxes on corporations was placed at $2,270,000,000, a decrease of $87,000,000. Mr. Truman said his 1948 revenue estimates are based on the assumption that business activity will average "slightly higher" than in boom-time calendar year 1946. There was no allowance for the possible "recession" some economists have predicted.

Effect of Recession
The President acknowledged in his message, however, that should a recession come it not only would lower tax receipts but increase outlays to the unemployed and to support farm prices.

Obviously anticipating Republican shots at his program, the President stoutly defended his spending and tax revenue proposals which, respectively, are about four and six times greater than the pre-war average under Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"There is no justification now for tax reduction," Mr. Truman asserted, making it plain he wants a budget surplus for use exclusively in paying down the $259,300,000,000 national debt, which costs $5,000,000,000 a year in interest charges.

The administration view is that nearly $33,000,000,000 of the costs in the President's budget are "fixed" and not capable of reduction. The other $4,500,000,000 plus covers spending by executive departments and agencies, whose original requests for funds had been trimmed sharply.

Will Have Last Word
Congress, however, will have the last word on the budget itself as well as actual appropriations, for under terms of new congressional reorganization act the lawmakers will write their own estimates of income and outgo next month.

Here is the way Mr. Truman broke down his recommended expenditures by programs, along with how his 1948 estimates compare with the newly revised estimates for the current fiscal year:

1. National defense—army, $6,658,000,000; navy, $4,423,000,000; G.I. terminal leave pay $250,000,000; stockpiling of strategic materials, etc. Total $11,557,000,000; down $2,589,000,000.

2. International affairs and finance—foreign loans, army administration and relief costs in occupied countries, $250,000,000; relief for "a few countries still in desperate straits," memberships in the United Nations and the like, $3,510,000,000; down $2,884,000,000 because world bank and world fund subscriptions will be paid up in full this fiscal year.

3. Veterans services and benefits—$7,343,000,000; down $258,000,000, due to tightening up on some allowances, more effective administration, and because "no major new programs of assistance appear necessary."

4. Social welfare, health and security—$1,654,000,000, up $84,000,000, largely because of public health promotion and an expected increase in old age assistance payments.

5. Housing and community facilities—$1,155,000,000, up $115,000,000, because of increased public housing and other community facilities.

6. Agriculture and rural development—$1,382,000,000; up $264,000,000 due chiefly to anticipated higher outlays to support farm prices, an increase in loans for rural electrification work, and expanded agricultural research.

7. Natural resources—$1,101,000,000; including $443,000,000 for atomic energy research and development (no longer classed as a "defense" item) up $3,300,000,000 with increases for river basin development, T.V.A. dam building and research.

8. Transportation and communication—$1,530,000,000; up $625,000,000 to permit increases in airports and highways construction and merchant marine promotion.

Bills Proposed at Albany

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—New York's lawmakers moved slowly today, compared with their record-breaking pace last year, in shoveling bills into the legislative mill.

The two-day total of 280 compares with last year's avalanche of 425 bills in the first two days which pointed the way to a record 5,211 during the session.

The current crop is featured by anti-discrimination measures, headed by a proposal to establish a permanent commission to guard against discrimination in education.

Senator W. J. Mahoney, Buffalo Republican, and Democratic Assemblyman Bernard A. Lavin of New York City, authors of the proposal to establish such a commission, proposed their plan yesterday in a bill calling for an appropriation of $150,000 for the body.

Other anti-discrimination measures introduced would: Direct the State Commission Against Discrimination to act against colleges discriminating in admission of students because of race, creed or color; (Assemblyman Louis F. Burke, D., Bronx); Prevent changes in school districts for the purpose of segregating pupils because of race, creed or color (Assemblyman Hulan E. Jack, D., New York City).

Utilities—$539,000,000, down $5,000,000, partly because subsidy payments for scarce materials are expected to be halted before fiscal 1948 begins.

6. Education and general research—$88,000,000; up $17,000,000, due chiefly to expanded programs by the Library of Congress, the Census Bureau, the Bureau of Standards and Coast and Geodetic Research.

7. Agriculture and rural development—$1,382,000,000; up $264,000,000 due chiefly to anticipated higher outlays to support farm prices, an increase in loans for rural electrification work, and expanded agricultural research.

8. Natural resources—$1,101,000,000; including $443,000,000 for atomic energy research and development (no longer classed as a "defense" item) up $3,300,000,000 with increases for river basin development, T.V.A. dam building and research.

9. Transportation and communication—$1,530,000,000; up $625,000,000 to permit increases in airports and highways construction and merchant marine promotion.

10. Finance, commerce and industry—$426,000,000; up $43,000,000 for increase of the Justice Department, the Federal Trade Commission and Federal Power Commission, business censuses and financial aid to business.

11. Labor—$118,000,000; down $6,000,000, principally because of the easing of the training and placement work of public employment offices.

12. General government—legislative and judicial functions, and civilian executive department management and control—$1,192,000,000; down $33,000,000 largely because of lessened costs of the surplus property disposal program as it tapers off.

13. Interest on the public debt—$5,000,000,000; up $30,000,000 because of increased special issues held by government trust funds which pay relatively high rates and increased values accruals of savings bonds as they near maturity.

14. Tax refunds—$2,065,100,000; down $90,000,000 because total tax collections will be less.

15. Reserve for contingencies—$25,000,000; up $15,000,000.

Other bills introduced would offer a wide range of new benefits for state civil service employees, including unemployment insurance which has Governor Dewey's backing.

Unemployment insurance bills were submitted by Assemblyman Elisha T. Barrett, Brightwaters Republican, and Senator Paul A. Flano, Bronx Republican.

Flano also proposed a six-months sabbatical leave be given state and city civil service workers for each five years service, the leave to be devoted to "educational improvement."

The first teachers salary bill to reach the assembly came from Peck. He proposed a $2,400 minimum for New York city supervisors and teaching staffs.

Other Assembly bills would: Approprate $10,000,000 for summer vacation camps for children. (Peck).

Permit deduction of federal income taxes in determining state income taxes (Edward T. Gallows, D., Bronx); Permit official referees of the Court of Appeals to take leaves of absence to serve in war trials (Pliny W. Williamson, R., Westchester).

Sentenced to 120 Days For Theft of Jacket
Francis A. Robinson, who said he resided at 25 Broad street, Johnson City, N. Y. was sentenced to 120 days in the county jail yesterday by Justice of the Peace Percy Bush of the town of Ulster following a change of plea.

Robinson had started to work at the Inn on Tuesday but his services were found unsatisfactory and he was dismissed. Decker notified the State Police at Lake Katrine that shortly after Robinson left he missed his jacket. The police were notified and later the Kingston police picked up Robinson, who, they said, was trying to sell the jacket. Robinson was turned over to Corporal Keating of State Police and arraigned on the petit larceny charge.

No Personal Injuries When Mustangs Clash
Manila, Jan. 10 (AP)—Two P-51 Mustangs from the U. S. Army's jet propelled fighter base at Florida Blanca collided in flight Wednesday without injury to either pilot, the army said today.

The tail of one plane was sheared off and the craft crashed and burst into flames, but the pilot parachuted to safety. The other pilot made an emergency landing.

The pilots' names were withheld.

Ruth's Condition Same
New York, Jan. 10 (AP)—The condition of Babe Ruth was described as unchanged today at French Hospital where the former home run king underwent a serious neck operation Monday. A bulletin issued shortly before 11 a. m. (E.S.T.) said: "The condition of Mr. Ruth remains about the same. His night was rather restless. There is no change in his physical condition and his temperature and pulse are normal." With the exception of his wife, Ruth has been allowed no callers since the operation.

school teachers and a long-range program of salary adjustments. The cost of the one-year program would run between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 and would be met by a special appropriation from the current $100,000,000 budgetary surplus.

New York city teachers want "nothing less" than a $350 increase on top of the $600 boost (including a $250 bonus) granted them by the city last year. They also want a $2,700 minimum starting salary. The present minimum is $2,206, including the $800 raise.

Schedule Desired
A salary schedule ranging from $2,400 to $3,600 is sought by teachers' upstate, where minimums now are $1,200 for common schools and $1,600 for schools having eight teachers or more.

The state-mandated minimum for cities is $1,050, but this figure long ago went by the boards in all municipalities.

Dewey's special committee has given no hint of how it proposes to get the raise into the purses of the teachers.

The teacher organizations are asking for an increase of at least $100,000,000 in state aid to localities "to make possible necessary educational expansion and a living and cultural wage."

On the municipal finance front the State Conference of Mayors requested that the legislature grant cities and villages additional taxing powers, contending that real estate no longer could bear the taxation burden alone.

Favors More Powers
Dewey, in his annual message Wednesday, noted that 85 per cent of all state revenues were returned to localities and said that was the limit, but he added that he favored enlarging local taxing powers.

Morgan Strong, executive secretary of the Mayor's Conference, said the conference looked with favor on legislation to permit some form of a local payroll tax and certain excise taxes.

The conference's officers and advisory committee, in a communication to the governor and legislature, recommended that cities and villages be granted "adequate powers to levy other substantial taxes in addition to the real estate tax."

The committee urged that the powers be so broad that each city and village "may use and apply them in a manner to meet its own needs and peculiar conditions."

It was reported, however, that several hard-pressed cities disliked the proposal on the ground that they would be backed into a corner on demands of municipal employees for pay increases.

Although the usual flood of bills is pouring into the legislative hopper, leaders think the session will be brief. Both Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck and Assemblyman D. Mallory Stephens, chairman of the ways and means committee, predict final adjournment on or about St. Patrick's Day.

House May Take Action on Measures Prior to Senate

gence in Senate and House Republican spending views, there were growing signs that party members in the two chambers also are considerably apart on the matter of tax cutting.

While Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee is sticking to his demand for a 20 per cent cut for all tax bills on incomes up to $300,000, some top-ranking Senators aren't taking so kindly to the idea.

"How can you say you are going to cut taxes by any figure, until you know what the income and outgo of the government is going to be?" an influential Republican Senator asked reporters.

As Republicans in the two chambers thus divided both on tax-trimming and federal spending, five of the top leaders of the two parties said they look for "better" cooperation between the President and the new Congress than prevailed in the 79th Congress. The other three, however, weren't so certain.

Girl Found Dead, Soldier Wounded In Barn at Groton

Groton, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—The frozen body of a 16-year-old girl and a critically wounded soldier, both with bullet wounds in the head, were found late last night in an abandoned barn on a rural road near this central New York village.

Tompkins County Sheriff Clifford Hall said that the girl, Elizabeth Warner of Groton, R. D. 2, had been shot twice with a .22 caliber rifle.

He said the soldier, Richard Beames, 18, also of Groton, R. D. 2, was found semi-conscious with a single bullet wound from the same weapon.

Hall said his investigation disclosed that Beames, who was on leave from Lowry Field, Denver, Colo., had shot the girl and later turned the gun on himself.

Beames was taken to Tompkins County Memorial Hospital at Ithaca. The sheriff reported that Beames, who he said was a friend of the Warner girl, had called for her in a truck Wednesday afternoon and driven to an abandoned farm.

Hall said that after the girl had been shot, Beames apparently went to the farm house where he wrote several notes, went home and changed his clothing, returned to the barn and shot himself.

Hall did not release the notes and said he could give no motive for the shootings. Coroner Ralph J. Low withheld his verdict pending further investigation.

The crop of winter spinach totals about 7,500,000 bushels, nearly a million more than 1945.

Tokyo Underworld Lord Has Funeral, Gets Up, Celebrates

By DUANE HENNESSY
Tokyo, Jan. 10 (AP)—Buddhist priests in robes of gold, purple and scarlet chanted sonorously over the coffin of Jo Shiba, 68-year-old ruler of Tokyo's underworld. Mourners squatted on mats with heads bowed, praying silently for the departed soul. The priests finished.

"Now let's have the feast—bring on the sake!" shouted Jo Shiba, jumping from his coffin and smoothing his morning suit. The thing was, Jo decided to start life anew and he figured the only way to do it was to die and be reborn.

He called in the priests and said he wanted a funeral. He said he wasn't dead, he says "no" to Jo, a tough and stern-faced cookie who rules with a wicked lash.

The funeral was held near Mito, 60 miles north of Tokyo, the other day. When it leaked out that the mourners brought gifts and gave 1,600,000 yen to the "bereaved" family, some suspected that Jo was reborn at a profit.

Others said the funeral cost Jo 3,000,000 if it cost him a yen, what with the sake, food for a three-day feast, and honoraria for priests and mourners.

There was a slight hitch at the last. When the priests arrived, Jo said he wasn't going to get in any coffin. They replied, in effect: No get in coffin, no funeral.

So Jo got in. The "deceased" said later that Jo Shiba was dead and a man named Joji Shibata had been born.

Just the same, the underworld still rotates around a 68-year-old tough and stern-faced cookie. And Joji Shibata looks an awful lot like Jo Shiba.
